

Why men didn't give them the vote sooner

As late as 1917, men still thought that women shouldn't have the vote. And here's some of their arguments...

“We are controlled and worried enough by women”

Sir James Grant

“The birth and marriage rate are already decreasing”

Sir Charles Hobhouse

“Women will wear enormous hats”

Rowland Hunt

“Men have a responsibility towards women”

Sir Charles Henry

“The feminine mind’s deadly logic is destructive”

Arthur Beck
